Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 210 pages. Lei . . . Sank, I dont care and do not want to hear what you are going to say. I know all the reasons why you are going to say that this isnt a good idea. I know its wrong and I may come to regret it. But, I simply cannot go another day like this. Mister Morrison, I am tired of thinking about the right or wrong of what I want. I am tired of being afraid of what might happen to us, or hiding and pretending I dont want to make love to you. This may surprise you, but I am tired of being proper and thinking about propriety and of what I should do, instead of what I want. Sank, I wish I could dump propriety down one cistern and leave it there. None of these things matter, because in my heart I am already married to you, I have been for some time now. I want you and I want you with or without marriage. I want you in spite of the Church and my reputation. Please Sank, I dont care about it anymore, because if I go another day like this I will go raving mad. Youre . . . I stopped, because I could not believe this wonderful woman who had been waiting so long and had shown me how strong and determined she was, had started to cry. Tears rolled down her cheeks and dripped onto the bodice of her dress. Youre going to spoil your pretty dress. Let me get you a Kleenex. I dont care, she said, sibilantly. Starting to ask a stupid question like what was wrong I stopped myself because I knew. Deep down inside, I knew. They had been living...
