Brand New Book  Print on Demand .ABOUT THE BOOK Sometimes we become victims of circumstances that are not our making and it is indeed our decisions, not the conditions of our lives that determine our destiny. Poverty is neither beautiful nor beneficial. It prevents visionary and ambitious people from attaining self-fulfillment. The antidote to the scourge of poverty is through a deliberate attempt fuelled by a high level of determination by the individual, the love of other people and effective systems put in place by the government to support the individual to break the chains of poverty through Education. This book essentially tells a story of love; about how the little show of love can transform the life of a disadvantaged person and the persons resolve to take advantage of that love to work hard to succeed in life and reciprocate it to other disadvantaged people. PREFACE At the critical adolescent age of 15, I became a parent, not by choice but by necessity. My father died in 1991 and for the next seven years, my mother singlehandedly eked out a living in the face of grinding poverty, to cater for her seven children. In 1998, my mother also passed away. As the eldest of my siblings, parenthood was rudely and suddenly thrust upon me. I had to struggle day and night to take care of my siblings. I was in desperate need of help. At the point where life had ceased to be meaningful, my tale of woe thankfully came to an end - a light shone at the end of the tunnel. God intervened and showered his love and grace on us by bringing the Village of Hope to our rescue. The...
