January--Make valentines for children in the hospitals. Paint them or color with crayons and print a Bible love verse in each one. February--Make paper doll scrap-books for a mission school. March--Make Easter nests out of small candy boxes. Dress a little doll and put in each one. Send to the girls in an orphan home. April--Make May baskets and fill them with tissue paper flowers if you cannot get real ones. Tuck a little letter in each basket and leave at the home of some girl in your neighborhood who is sick. Now who will finish the list, or, better still, choose twelve new honors for your Camp Fire? Fire Talk May you spread happiness! What a magic word happiness is. Everybody desires it, but so often those who are not seeking it find it more surely. Why? Because the best way to be happy is to make somebody else happy. You have been proving the truth of that in your Christmas work. Every group that gave Christmas cheer to the poor, the lonelv, the sick, or to people far away in distant lands who have never learned the Christmas story, received even more happiness than they gave. The holiday season is over and every girl is gazing into 1916 with eager eyes. Look up 1 Corinthians xii, 31. It is a wonderful introduction to the love chapter. Let us make it our Camp Fire...
