Language: English Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The American Monthly Microscopical Journal, Vol. 10: Containing Contributions to Biology Cover each tumbler with paper to keep out dust but to let in air. Put them away, a set of three in a moist dark place, a set of three in a moist light place. In the pure water, whether in the dark or the light place, two or three days will have produced no change. In the syrup or the cake, from both places, spots of green will have appeared upon the surface. Therefore, mould grows in the dark as well as in the light, and will not grow in water containing no organic matter. In similar ways it may be shown that mould grows well on meat broth and other watery media; that it grows faster in warm places and slower in cold places. 2. Examination with Low Power. - Upon the tip of a needle catch the smallest possible speck of mould, add a drop of water, cover it and place under the low power. There will perhaps appear some very fine threads, but mainly a great dimness with some very dark curved lines. This mount is a failure, proving that water is not a universal mounting medium. That might have been suspected from the water not moistening the film when first tried. Begin again with the needle, and now use alcohol upon the slide. When viewed under the microscope it will appear that the mould is made up of fibres matted together. These will show still better under the high powers. Before using them, mount a new slide in alcohol, carefully teasing the speck of mould before covering it. To tease...
